

TESTIMONIAL

'As an Ambassador for Radiotherapy UK, I take pride in the opportunity to amplify the voices of patients and healthcare professionals alike, advocating for increased government investment in cancer services.

By leveraging our collective voices, we petition policymakers to prioritise funding for essential resources, ultimately improving access to life-saving treatments like radiotherapy and enhancing the quality of care for those affected by cancer.'

Jo McNamara, therapeutic radiographer, lecturer & Rad Chat co-founder

PEER SUPPORT

OPPORTUNITIES TO GROW

Ambassadors get involved on so many levels: whether it's through our clinical engagement group, reports and policy documents, the #CatchUpWithCancer campaign, our webinar series or collaborating at conferences; we welcome you to use and build your unique skill set.

SUPPORT AND ADVICE

Ambassadors are welcomed to join a lively Whatsapp group where members often post queries and questions. Anyone know a specialist? Anyone doing this technique? Ask the Ambassadors! If you have great news to share, our comms team will help you. We have a social media following of 16k and growing.

COMMUNITY

Radiotherapy UK could not have achieved what it has in the past few years without the Ambassadors' Network. Join the community and drive much-needed change as a collective voice for the workforce and cancer patients.

BECOMING AN AMBASSADOR

WITH RADIOTHERAPY UK

Join a dedicated team of radiotherapy professionals supporting and working alongside the UK's only charity dedicated to this life-saving treatment.

Radiotherapy UK is a small but ambitious charity campaigning for better patient outcomes and championing an incredibly skilled workforce.

Radiotherapy UK

Charity number 1135902

FABULOUS FUNDRAISING

Radiotherapy UK is a small, independent charity that receives no government funding. But that's not going to stop us!

Each year our #Miles4Radiotherapy fundraiser welcomes hundreds of participants to enjoy a virtual summer challenge full of fitness and wellbeing: to support our mission.

As an Ambassador you'll be keen to get stuck in and set a great example, by encouraging your friends, family and workmates to form a team and join in.

SHARING EXPERTISE

Our Ambassadors are keen to bring their frontline knowledge to support our work.
When you inform our advocacy work with your experience it means we can be more impactful and effective for the benefit of patients and the workforce.

Support with your specialist skills and knowledge by assisting with the development of our patient information resources in line with PIF TICK accreditation values. You can get involved with running patient focus groups, take part in our clinical engagement group and support our workforce webinars.

If you work or study in the field of radiotherapy, you can apply to become an Ambassador. Get in touch with your CV or Linkedin profile if you would like to be considered.

Get in touch to learn more at info@radiotherapy.org.uk

PROMOTING THE PROFESSION

Radiotherapy UK wants to encourage the next generation of professionals, with your support. Share your open days with our comms team or create a 'talking heads' video explaining what inspires you to do this work.

When you take part and share our workforce surveys and regular news updates, you'll be helping to create a strong voice for the radiotherapy community.

Perhaps presenting is your special skill? We attend conferences and events through the year and often collaborate with Ambassadors to make the most of these opportunities.

We want to share, promote, and celebrate workforce achievements, good news stories, research and new developments. As an Ambassador you'll be keen to share your news so we can help spread the word.